

What is an Advance Directive?

An advance directive, also known as a "living will", is a document through which you provide instructions about your health care wishes during times when you are physically or mentally unable to express those wishes. It is called an "advance" directive because you make the medical decision for yourself before you become seriously ill. Some examples of advance directives include living wills and durable power of attorney for health care decisions.

An advance directive can provide very specific instructions for end-of-life care and is an opportunity to tell health care professionals and family members what you want as far as life sustaining or other treatment. When health care professionals and others do not have access to a living will or advance directive, they may not know a patient's wishes.

What is the Living Will Lockbox?

The Living Will Lockbox is a secure, virtual lock box in which Nevadans can file certain directives, including living wills, powers of attorney, and "do not resuscitate" (DNR) orders for access by designated health care professionals, and family when medical treatment decisions must be made.

Established by the 2007 Nevada State Legislature, the Living Will Lockbox was developed and will be maintained by the office of Secretary of State Ross Miller and there is no cost to file with the Lockbox.

Mail or FAX a copy of the living will or advance directive and the signed completed registration agreement to: the Living Will Lockbox - 555 E. Washington Ave., Suite 5200, Las Vegas, NV 89101. FAX: (775) 684-7177.

Can I change my Advance Directive once it has been registered with the Lockbox?

You may revoke, replace, edit, or delete all or part of your documents filed with the Lockbox. To make changes, simply notify the Lockbox by submitting an Authorization to Change form or mail or fax a copy of a newly executed Advance Directive form along with the Authorization to Change Form.

How will my health care provider know if I have an Advance Directive stored in the Lockbox?

It is important to notify family members and health care professionals that you have an advance directive/living will. Share your wallet card registration number with your loved ones, attorney, and/or health care professionals. Be sure to let them know of any updates in your documents ranging from a simple change of address to a new living will or advance directive. As the registrant you are responsible for ensuring that your registration number is shared only with people who you want to be able to access your Lockbox file.

Your health care provider may already have access to the Lockbox and documents as an Authorized Provider. Authorized Providers may access the Lockbox through their own registration and have secure access to the registry and can therefore immediately determine if a patient has a document registered with the Lockbox. Be sure to check with your health care provider to see if they are an Authorized Provider.

Is the Living Will Lockbox a secure system?

The Living Will Lockbox is an access-protected, secure electronic filing system and accessible only by authorized healthcare providers and to people whom you give your Lockbox registration password. However, if you do not want to file your advance directive/living will with the Lockbox, you can complete an Advance Directive Locator form. The Advance Directive Locator is then electronically stored in lieu of the actual living will/advance directive, and provides the physical location of these documents, without providing the actual content.

Please note that using the Advance Directive Locator may, in some cases, delay important health care decisions until such time as the actual documents are located.
